Dear Sir,

I have just received your dated 13th informing me that you intended coming over with an argument in the Chowpenning case in a short time, and I write now to prevent you from giving yourself that trouble. I have already given much consideration to that case, and have twice refused to reconsider it, — first, when though it was admitted that my predecessor had made a final decision in it, it was contended that I could properly review his decision, and second when it was contended, as you propose to contend now, that Mr Brown had left the matter open for further adjudication.

Having deliberately formed my opinion on both these points, after argument for the claimant, both written and oral by the ablest lawyers, and entered my judgment in writing on the files of the Department, I feel myself precluded from further entertaining the questions thus raised

I am Sir very respectfully

Hon W. P. Fessenden
Secretary of the Treasury.

Sir:

I am informed by the Superintendent of Public Printing, that he does not possess the requisite machinery for printing consecutive numbers upon seventy five thousand blanks for money orders, as required by this Department, and that the work can be done in this city only at the Treasury Department.

I have therefore the honor to request that you will be pleased to permit the consecutive numbers to be printed upon the blanks in question by the proper officer of your Department - the blanks to be furnished to him by the Superintendent of Public Printing.

The cost of printing these numbers will be paid out of the contingent fund of this Department

Hon E. M. Stanton
Secretary of War

Sir:

I have the honor herewith to submit a statement made by Mr. Alfred A Railey Postmaster at Leslieville, Reynolds Co Mo

He alleges that on the 5 or 6 of August 1864 a Col Hecker of the Federal Army, with a number of his men, entered his office through the windows, and after opening the door, by removing the lock from the inside, proceeded to cut open the mails made up for St Louis and other places and destroyed the contents. It is also alleged that these persons destroyed all the property belonging to the post-office, including postage stamps and Stamped envelopes.

It is supposed that Col Hecker is still in the service. The number of his regiment is not given.

Asking your attention to the case, I have the honor to be
