

1903-08 Issue - Five Cents

On January 20, 1903, the BEP issued the new five cents Lincoln design in blue as part of the definitive issue begun in 1902. The stamps bear the double lined "USPS" watermark.

On February 24, 1908, the stamp was issued as an endwise coil, perforated horizontally. The 1908 coils were the first issued by the government. There are no recorded examples of this stamp used on cover.

On May 30, 1908, the stamp was issued imperforate. Only 13,200 were issued imperforate and most of these went to manufacturers of private vending machine coils.

In 1904, Canal Zone became under the jurisdiction of the United States and the P.O.D. overprinted stamps "Canal Zone" for use at nine post offices opened in connection with the construction of the Panama Canal.

On January 4, 1904, the P.O.D. issued the 5¢ 1903 value overprinted "Philippines" for use under American Administration of the islands.

Two Reported Examples Of Centerline Block

The sheet of 400 was divided into four panes of 100 stamps by guide lines. Because of the way these 33 sheets of imperforates were distributed, there are fewer than 6 centerline blocks that could remain intact.

U.S. Automatic Vending Company

Type I perforations (mint)

Type II perforations

Type III perforations

The U.S. Automatic Vending Company most likely received the bulk of the 10,000 imperforate stamps distributed to New York City. They applied three different types of perforation as shown above. The type III perforations were used on small counter top machines in New York City.

1908 Issue - Five Cents Imperforate Private Vending Machine Coils

Parkhurst Company

Although five sheets of the imperforate were delivered to Indianapolis for the use of the Parkhurst Company in preparing coils, the experimental strip shown here is the only strip of four extant.

Schermack Mailing Machine Company

Type II perforations

Type III perforations

Of the 13,200 total printing of the imperforates, it is believed that 10,000 were sent to New York City for use by U.S. Automatic Vending Company, 2,000 were sent to Indianapolis for use by Parkhurst Company and the remaining 1,200 were sent to Baltimore for use by International Vending Machine Company. Some of the sheets, likely from the stock sent to New York City, were used by Schermack Mailing Machine Company. No examples are known from International. Three types are reported from Schermack as well as U.S. Automatic Vending. Although Schermack Type I is listed, there are no certified examples and it may not exist genuine.
